MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BARNETT

Both Branches of Legislature Join in Tribute to Memory Of Taft and Leigh.

TOLTON DELIVERS ADDRESS.

Democratic Leader Eulogizes Comrade After Which Other Members of House and Senate Talk.

In honor of the late Representative Seth Taft of Thurber, Wayne county, and the late legislative reporter of the Herald, Clint B. Leigh, memorial services are being held in the house chambers this afternoon.

This is the first time since statehood that the Utah legislature has come to bow its head in sorrow over the death of a member while on duty, and the peculiarly tragic manner in which the death occurred has created makes it of special significance.

The event marks the fraternity of citizenship, for a senate exclusively Republican and a house exclusively Democratic, came to a tribute of respect to a fellow citizen, who came to the body representing a minority's sentiments in government, and to a legislative reporter representing the dominant political faith.

Representative Tolton, leader of the solid Democratic eight, at the floor, called to order the memorial service, followed by Rev. P. A. Simpkin, chaplain of the senate, and a member of the Press club, who will speak both the house and senate chambers, and the press workers whose comrades was stricken down while on duty.

Other members, both of the house and senate, will deliver brief eulogies. Harry Joseph, J. N. Davis and Orville Thompson, represent the house, while two senators will respond to a resolution of condolence, requesting the upper legislative body to participate in the proceedings.

Whereas, On February 23, 1907, a comrade of the house of representatives was appointed to arrange a program for memorial services in honor of the memories of Representative Seth Taft and legislative reporter Clint B. Leigh, who were stricken down while on duty.

Resolved, That Tuesday, the 26th day of February, at 3:30 o'clock, p. m., be fixed as the time for the holding such memorial services; and be it further Resolved, That the honorable senate of the state of Utah be hereby invited to meet with the house of representatives on said date and at said time, to participate in said memorial services, and designate two of their members to deliver addresses on said occasion.

JOHN J. DAVIS, Chairman Memorial Committee.

IN THE HOUSE.

Lively Debate on Two Measures, Both Of Which Go Over Till Wednesday.

During a busy afternoon yesterday a lively effort was made to bring to a close the session of the house of representatives. The first measure on the calendar was a resolution proposing the killing of the joint memorial praising Congress for its action in the Smoot case. The resolution finally passed by a vote of 12 yeas and 12 nays.

Another lively discussion was provoked over H. B. 30 by Barnett, which finally went back to committee for amendment. The county division bill, introduced by Mr. Giles, failed to receive a constitutional majority vote in the house, and became a special order for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Another lively discussion was provoked over H. B. 30 by Barnett, which finally went back to committee for amendment.

Mr. Giles, failed to receive a constitutional majority vote in the house, and became a special order for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Another lively discussion was provoked over H. B. 30 by Barnett, which finally went back to committee for amendment.

Dyrenge opposed the bill, saying many private individuals were interested in corporations. But their private property is not liable for the corporation's debts," answered Critchlow.

The bill finally passed by a vote of 26 yeas, 16 nays, 4 absent and not voting.

TO CENSURE SENATE.

The resolution censuring the senate for its action in killing house resolution 3, congratulating the United States senate on its same action in voting to allow Smoot to retain his seat, was introduced by Representative Thompson of Millard. The resolution, which was read in polite language, severely scores the upper house for its discourteous treatment of the resolution, which was passed by unanimous vote of the house, and asked that body to recede from its unpatriotic and discourteous position, or to give its reason why the resolution was not passed. Mr. Critchlow objected to censuring the upper house as unpatriotic. He claimed they may have a reason unknown to the house for their action in regard to this resolution. Mr. Thompson asked the upper house to recede from its position, or to give its reason why the resolution was not passed. Mr. Critchlow objected to censuring the upper house as unpatriotic. He claimed they may have a reason unknown to the house for their action in regard to this resolution. Mr. Thompson asked the upper house to recede from its position, or to give its reason why the resolution was not passed.

Mr. B. 30, by Barnett, relating to polygamy, bigamy and fornication came up for consideration under special order of business yesterday morning. The measure as introduced provides that the word "bigamy" be substituted for the word "polygamy," in the statute covering the offense, in order that prosecutions on cases that formerly came under the head of bigamy may be had, without having to resort to the statute defining polygamy, for such prosecutions, as is at present the case.

Considerable discussion was indulged in by the members on this bill, some of whom took occasion to deliver long speeches in the woodpile, even openly charging the author of the bill with the purpose of "intentionally" polygamy and the intention of doing away with prosecutions under that head altogether.

Barnett arose to explain the provisions of the bill he was assailed with questions from all sides. Critchlow wished to know why the word bigamy was substituted for polygamy. Barnett answered that the purpose of enabling prosecution to be had in cases of bigamy without being into defining polygamy. "There is no law against bigamy on the Utah statutes," said Mr. Barnett, "and every case of bigamy of which there are many, must be tried under the law on polygamy, and in each such case it is heralded abroad to the people of the land as 'another case of polygamy in Utah.' It is this false impression that we wish to correct, and I believe the people of this state are keeping the compact that polygamy should cease, and that it will be kept in future. I am not here to flatter the code that is so old, but to tell the truth to be known, and when a case of bigamy is to be tried (as in the late Campbell case, for instance) I want the trial and the statute covering the crime of bigamy, and not telegraphed to all sections as 'another case of polygamy in Utah.'"

Critchlow asked if he would have a case of polygamy telegraphed out as a case of bigamy, to which Barnett gave a negative answer. Any case of polygamy should be prosecuted under such and under statute, but the same rule should apply when a case of bigamy is in the courts.

Clegg asked if other states had similar statutes covering bigamy. Barnett replied that what is known in other states as bigamy has always been called polygamy in Utah, whereas there is no real difference in the meaning of the two words, and the measure is to make the Utah statute conform to the general law on the subject.

Joseph Jensen with mock solemnity asked what the newspapers would say to the present discussion. Clegg and Jensen thereupon engaged in a little running debate as a kind of side issue.

Mark announced himself opposed to the bill. He said he saw in it an ulterior motive—a nigger in the wood. The bill is a trick to get the legislature to make the Utah statute conform to the general law on the subject.

In a few days the pain was gone, and I was able to bend over. I am now well, and I am sure that Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me." Sold by all druggists.

With the conclusion of the Haight trial at Fort Douglas the findings of the court martial have been sent to headquarters at Denver for review. It is confidently reported from the post that Capt. Haight has been acquitted. If this is a fact, the findings of the court will not be sent to Washington, but approved by the brigadier general commanding the department of the Colorado, and published through official orders. The findings of a court martial are considered more binding than the findings of a court of law, and the findings of the court will be sent to Washington, but approved by the brigadier general commanding the department of the Colorado, and published through official orders.

The same court martial is held over to sit on the case of First Lieut. Eugene C. Thompson of Fort Duchesne, accused of being drunk on his pay accounts. The accused may be able to show that it is merely a case of incorrect bookkeeping which can be straightened out to the satisfaction of the court.
